manager of Battling Nelson, said that he would match the against Terry McGovern just as as a suitable place could be found the fight, the only condition being the seating capacity should be not

But for all of that it is ten to one that y will never meet Nelson in a ring. nstead of meeting Terry and taking a tious chance of being knocked out in our rounds or so, as Eddie Hanlon was year ago, Nelson will stick to the stage, which is safer. Then, after a while, he will be matched with Jimmy Britt again. Nelson feels in the matter Britt just as Young Corbett did out Terry; he thinks he "has the Indan sign" on him. He regards Britt as easy mark, and of course Britt and Relson, on account of the rattling fight they put up last time, will draw a tremendous house when they get into another scrap.

But, to return to Terry's chance for a nght. A short time ago Nolan wrote to · professional friend of his as follows: Nelson and McGovern will never fight. You can go out and bet your pile on it." That seems to be the strongest indication yet given of the way Nelson's ironwed manager will finally jump.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 4.—Over five hundred Cincinnatians have been drowned during the past eighteen years while engaged in the sport of swimming!

During the same time not a single Cincinnatian has met death as the result of playing in a football game!

These are the figures that have been gathered by a football eithusiast who has for many years closely followed the sport at Cincinnati. Said he: "The hue and cry raised against football is not justified so far as the Cincinnati casualities are concerned. Dr. Arch I. Carson was captain of the first football team at the University of Cincinnati, shad he: "The have been many small accidents, such as sprains, and bruises, broken noses, broken collarbones, broken ribs, &c."

The worst accidents have been a few cases of broken arms and legs, but have been exceedingly rare. In yery few instances have the injured players been laid up more than one or two weeks." CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 4 .- Over five member of that team met death on the
